

Fuck. That was a mistake on my part. I tried to help Still, yet Nanotrasion decided that me helping her wasn't a worthwhile endeavor. I still tried to help, and now I'm in this godawful situation. They want me, and they will stop at nothing to achieve it. Still has PTSD, and NT, even if not directly, caused it to happen. She, well, had a shift where she perceived revolutionaries, but there were no revolutionaries. Because of that, she had decided to call for a Death Squad. NT never actually sent one however. They didn't see the threat of revolutionaries to be worthy of it at that time.

I tried. I really tried to manage her PTSD. I am her doctor, a trusted one in NT in fact. Hell, I'm a Chief Medical Officer. Obviously, I kept helping, as Still is one of my best friends. Why wouldn't I? Her personality is more important than ruthless efficiency. Hell, her PTSD makes it so she is even less efficient than normal. NT obviously didn't agree, as they sent NT-1SD after me.

I am obviously running from them. But, somehow, they caught up to me again... I need to get into the maintenance tunnels quickly. I need to defend myself verbally.
Just, please believe me Command...

[Command] CMO: "I tried to help her. Still has PTSD because she called for a deathsquad."

They want me even more now... Why do they think that Command is not a secure channel when it is literally less than 10 minutes into the shift. I didn't leak secrets- Deathsquads are common knowledge among all command members.

I need oxygen to escape from this madness. They have 100% sent security officers after me, so my only option is to escape into space and stay there. Thank god I have my medical jaws of life, as it would be impossible to get outside of the station using solars. For some reason, even as a command member, I'm not provided with the luxury of having externals access.

I need to use solars because they often have 10 oxygen tanks in their internal store. I just need to get to, and dispense from the vending machine. If I don't have at least 5 tanks of oxygen, I won't be able to survive as long as I need to. Its not really easy for me to get back to the station, as going back in is a risk I am not willing to take.

I.. I found it.. Just to break into it.. it's really loud though.. making a constant creaking sound while I'm breaking into the double airlock. Now, I just need to deal with the oxygen and fitting everything in my bag; It should be easy though, as I have an extra toolbox that I looted.

I'm out. I somehow made it onto solars without getting caught. I'm safe.. Hopefully...

This is peaceful.. Quiet.. I don't want to go back now..

This is perfect. No walls around me. I still need to make sure I'm not caught..

***

While feeling the reinforced hull and slowly navigating around the station, I feel like I am incredibly relaxed... It won't last though... They are still looking for me.. But, I don't really care..

***

God god god god god. A security officer who is being incredibly loud is just around the corner. They are actively getting closer. I need to hide quickly. I can't get caught here, or I will get permabridged.

no no no, please no....

Security Officer: I need you to come with me, you're wanted by NT-ISD.

CMO: I'm not coming with you. I never will Stunned than Cuffed. It hurts like hell, and also makes me feel like I just ran a marathon in under a second. This'll go away quickly though, as it only stuns me temporarily. The cuffing is the real issue. I need to get out of them, but if I try, I'll be hit, or moved. They clearly want to drag me to security. This is their fault, but it's gross at the same time. In some weird way, these cuffs are preventing me from moving while I'm being dragged by someone. I can't move anything other than my hands, and even then, it's interpreted as an attempt to break out of them.

After the fact, they dragged me into Security's interrogation room, but I'm not doing anything wrong.. why..

NTR: Why did you leak corporate secrets?

CMO: I swear- I didn't! I only said them over command comms

CMO: I swear... It was too early in the shift for them to be compromised...

NTR: Still, you somehow know about them when you aren't meant to CMO: I was only explaining why NT-ISD wanted me..

CMO: NTR, you should really know this better than any command member as it's in the training modules. NT burdened me with the knowledge of their corporate secrets.

NTR: Well, you have a choice of being perma'd or being demoted to a passenger . Follow me please.

CMO: I would rather be a passenger than having to deal with this company.

They left my stuff on the ground.. They left everything.. That was a bad decision on their part, as I am a criminal now. I grab what I can carry after they uncuff me. I need to get out of this room. I really do not want to get my stuff stripped again. But, being a passenger is entirely unbearable to me.

I might as well just jump into disposals. They aren't really paying attention to me, so I just grabbed the stuff that I wanted, and jumped in. If they don't want to acknowledge people's rights, I might as well just betray them more than they betrayed me and just leak more information. However, this time, I am doing it on the common radio instead of the command channel. I don't care if I die from this, but It would be nice to see people again.

Disposals.. dirt.. Gross, but necessary for my survival; But still, what if I get stuck-- It's honestly an inevitability that I mess up my navigation at some point. It's not possible for me to see more than around 10 meters in front of me. Honestly, I don't really care if I die out here. As long as I am able to leave a scar in NT's reputation, I am good.

After I come out of the disposal pipes, I crawl through the blast doors that go into space. They are typically used by our janitors as a way to dump trash. It is incredibly gross that NT provides this instead of proper disposal at the end of shift, but it ironically provides the best way for me to leave this awful company.

[COMMON] CMO: There is something called a deathsquad that NT can send to the station! They will kill us all. It is always precluded by Epsilon alert, which is them cutting all contracts with everyone currently on the station.

I still have so much more I can leak NT... try to come and get me, I dare you.

[COMMON] CMO: You know those stories about nuclear operatives from the pod wars right? Those are actually real. They have been nuking NT-aligned stations for the longest time at this point. You have 100% heard about stations getting nuked.

Well, that's it for me I guess. I messed up, and launched myself off the side of the station.. I'll likely be floating in space for eternity now.

In deep space, after leaking a lot more secrets

Peace... I feel peace again.. but, at what cost? My life? My dignity? My Job? It doesn't matter... I caused irreparable harm to NT, and that's all I really need to not have any regrets now. I don't have a lot of oxygen left, but it's enough to last well beyond when the next shift shuttle arrives in 30 minutes.

God: Would you like to make a deal so you can get back to the station?

CMO: What is the price for that?

God: Oh, just your last spare oxygen tank.

CMO: Deal

Oh- I see, the gods put a fire extinguisher and a mass scanner next to me.. Well, I guess I need to use the fire extinguisher and the second law of physics to propel myself back to the station. My only worry with it is me running out of the fluid within the fire extinguisher before I can get back to the station. Thank god they also put a mass scanner there, as I am somehow so far away from the station that it's not actually visible on the mass scanner. There is no way I would be able to navigate space without a marker I can see. Thank god that I can still see some signs of life in this dark expanse.

*hiss*

[COMMON] CMO: I'm coming back. A god was kind enough to give me a fire extinguisher and a mass scanner. Might as well continue to look for me if you didn't already give up.

Station walls in sight, nearly out of fluid in the fire extinguisher

I'm so close to the station.. I have plenty of oxygen left in the tank that wasn't taken from me,, but I would absolutely get electrocuted by god if I didn't go back into maintenance. But at this point, even if I get executed, I will just be a martyr. I have already leaked far too much information for them to cleanse. If they execute me, it would just confirm everything that I have said. If they don't, I'll just continue to leak the information. They burdened me with it, so honestly, it's my right to give everyone the right to judge this company for what they are.

I walk onto the station's external grating. Though, because I taunted security, they are 100% looking for me around maintenance. I need a plan before I go in... It's best if I keep my mask on while still saving my oxygen supply. I'll keep my EVA on but turn internals off as soon as I get into maints. I would change my voice if I could, but that requires more specialized gear taken from the syndicate.

BSO: Take your mask off before I do if for you

You're meant to protect me BSO.. it's your job-- Well, I did betray the person who employs them, so its fair. But, I'm not going to go easily. I won't talk or take my EVA off unless the BSO physically takes it off my head. I need to run quickly, obviously won't work though-- *clank* Ow, being cuffed two times in a row is not good for my wrists. Though, I need to do one last thing before I see them...

[COMMON] CMO: It's all real! NT is at fault for all of your worries and even deaths! You get cloned after every shift to remove your memories.

BSO: No you don't

I wasn't expecting that- They just ripped my headset off of my head. It doesn't really matter as I got my final message out to everyone on the station.

CMO: This is all your fault! You did this to yourself!

***

NTRs Office.

People in the room are the CMO, NTR, capt, and the BSO

Capt: You know why you're being executed right?

CMO: (laughing) Obviously I do. This is entirely your fault, and you know, by executing me, you are just confirming everything that I said today.
